

Capo 1 Transposition Chart

Songs that are in difficult keys are often played in easier keys by using a capo and playing the chords in the easier key.

These songs can also be played in the easier key directly without the use of a capo.

For someone to play the notes to such a song accompanied by another person playing the chords without a capo, the person playing the notes must mentally transpose the position of the notes as shown above. With practice, doing so is quite doable.
